The screenshot shows the Neocities homepage. The header includes the Neocities logo (a cat with a paint palette) and the text "neocities". Below the header, there's a navigation bar with links: Websites, Activity, Learn, and Support Us. The main content area has a light blue background with a faint illustration of a city skyline. A dark grey sign-up form is overlaid on the right side of the page. The form has the title "Sign up for free" and contains fields for Username, Password, Email, and Tags. There's also a checkbox for "Confirm you are human" and a "Create My Site" button. The left side of the form contains text about creating a free website and sharing it with the world.

Powered by supporters like you

Neocities will never sell your personal data or embed advertising on member sites. Instead, we are funded directly by our community through supporter plans and donations. This allows us to base all our decisions on making the best possible web building experience for you, rather than on appeasing ad companies.

Risk-free and secure

You can downgrade back to a free account at any time. If you do, we'll refund the amount you didn't use. We use Stripe and PayPal for payments, and never store your credit card information directly.
